

Date: 11/09/2017

Conservation of Indigenous Rice Seeds Report 2017-18

Department of Botany and Zoology jointly organize a Conservation program of Indigenous rice seeds on Monday, 11th September 2017. The conservation of rice seeds is carried from the Mokhada and Jawhar tehsil of Palghar district. The present work is carried in collaboration with the department of Botany, Shivaji university Kolhapur. We were work as volunteer in this conservation programme. The principal investigator of this project is Dr. N. B. Gaikwad, Department of Botany, Shivaji University, Kolhapur.

Students and teachers from botany and zoology department were actively participated in this programme and spread awareness about the indigenous rice seed in the tribal and local peoples.

Head,

Department of Botany
Head / विभागप्रमुख
Department of Botany / वनस्पतीशास्त्र विभाग

Conservation of indigenous Rice seeds Department of Botany and Zoology

The collection of indigenous rice seeds is carried from the Mokhada and Javhar Tehsil. The present work is carried in collaboration with the Department of Botany, Shivaji University, Kolhapur. The we are working as a volunteer in this conservation programme. The principle investigator of this project is Dr. n. B. Gaikwad, Department of Botany, Shivaji University, Kolhapur.

Collection of Rice Seeds at Nalyachia Pada, Mokhada

Collection of Rice Seeds at Dhapti, Mokhada

शिवजी विद्यापीठ
Head

Department of Botany / वनस्पतीशास्त्र विभाग